

#37 JAHNKE FARM

The Jahnke family helped to paint their quilt block @ New View Industries

The barn was built in 1904, and was owned by Ed and June DeLano. It was used for milking cows.

If a neighboring barn burnt down, Ed would open his barn up to let the neighbors milk their cows there. Ed and June also would let the neighborhood kids play basketball in the hay mow.

Now the barn is owned by Royce and Hannah Jahnke along with their three daughters. They use the barn for horses, sheep, chickens, ducks, and more. And Royce and Hannah carry on the tradition of inviting families over so that the kids can play in the hay forts and with the farm animals!
